This event provides a discussion forum about the reality of secondary prevention related interventions in the UK – about their content, function, and desired (and also less desired) implications. Outcomes of the day will inform a scoping paper to bring this work to the forefront of national discussions of sexual harm prevention.

As an invited member of the discussion panel, you are entitled to attend the onlinePROTECT conference (<http://www.onlineprotectproject.co.uk/2016-conference/>) on a donation-based rate. All proceeds go to the Lucy Faithfull Foundation to support their Safer Internet Seminars. To secure your place, contact Zoe Mead by 21 May 2016, quoting “Roundtable”.
